"Spot is one of the essential experiences of childhood." (Parents magazine)

Eric Hill (www.funwithspot.com) left school when he was 15 and took up cartooning while working as a messenger at an art studio. He created Where's Spot? as a bedtime story for his two-year old son. It was published four years later, and the rest is history. Eric Hill passed away in July 2014.

A cute series but it's soft cover rather than hard cover so disappointing in the hands of a 3 yr. old.

When we got this book, my bookworm toddler acted like she didn't care about it....then proceeded to "read" it to herself by turning the pages and lifting the flaps until it was time to bathe! The flaps are nice and sturdy (like thick heavyweight scrapbooking paper), and the story itself will probably be enjoyed when she's old enough to go to school. Spot goes through all the emotions that little ones experience when starting school -- shyness, then warming up to everyone & everything, and finally he can't believe that it's time to go home! -- so I can see how a preschooler would enjoy reading this in preparation for "the big day". The illustrations don't seem as "done" as the "Where's Spot?" book -- maybe the illustrations in this one could be classified as "classic Spot"? One thing: if, like my toddler, your toddler is overzealous and rips off the flaps of these types of books, try this trick: pre-fold the flaps before giving it to them. And if it rips off anyway, use Elmer's glue to glue it back on, wait overnight to dry it, and prefold the flap before giving it back to the toddler. I've fixed our lift-the-flaps countless times (she IS a bookworm, after all) and it always works....never had to fix the same page twice.

Great for learning basic concepts!

My 2 1/2 yr daughter loved this week. It is a flip book and at her age that is very attractive. It also shows spot having lots of fun and although a little shy as he starts the day it does not show him crying. I was looking for books that helped her see how mom will not be with her and how she will come back to pick her up without showing the preschooler crying and this one was perfect!

Two year old loves this book.

Used this book to help talk to my son about going to school for the first time and what he would be doing so he wasn't scared, worked perfect! He always loved these books and this one is nice and big!

I teach Pre-K and the kids like to read this on their own. The text is easy to memorize and the print is large. They love that they get to lift flaps. Great short and simple book.

Child loves book but some of the page's flaps were ripped off. Would have sent back but I didn't want to take it away from him.
