Customer Reviews

This guidebook in the Moon Outdoor Series offers a detailed look at campgrounds throughout Baja California. Author Laura Martone has been making RV trips to the peninsula since 2001, so she has a good understanding of what's available there and what you need to know to travel in Mexico. --RV Life, November 25, 2008

I was afraid that this would be a little more than a re hash of the Baja Guide (that I also have), but ordered it anyway. Glad that I did. Although I have not yet verified its accuracy (the trip is coming up this February), I know that it is good on the ones that I recognize from past trips. Even if not completely accurate, it has a good description of what to look for along the route. A good investment.

Easy to follow. A little more info re boondocking would aid a bit. Quite useful for pre planning

Recently took a trip to San Felipe and used the Moon guide, I never checked publication date but it appears to be a bit outdated even though it is still very useful in the most part and worth every penny that I paid.

I like the book, it had a lot of info for camping and a lot of other things. Thank you

Very thorough with attention to detail. Good information on free as well as pay locations. Also good information on do's and don'ts in Mexico...
