JILL ESBAUM is the award-winning author of several books for young readers. Some of her titles for National Geographic include Angry Birds Playground: Animals, Angry Birds Playground: Dinosaurs, Everything Spring, Winter Wonderland, and Cherry Blossoms Say Spring. She lives on a farm near Dixon, Iowa.

Loving this book. We read, we learn and information is interesting, factual yet easy to follow for my 6 year old. He loves when I read to him but I need him to read more so I read the main text and he reads the little quotes from the blurbs. Each continent is broken down to a few pages about culture, climate. location and major landmarks with a little comic story of the birds traveling the globe to mix it all together. The book also includes a pretty easy to read world map in the center. Each chapter is the perfect length for a bed time story--we have been exploring the world every night with the beloved birds. This has been a great supplement to playing the game Stack the Countries.

I used this atlas to introduce my kids, ages 8, 5, and 2 to the continents and places around the world. They LOVED this atlas! Great pictures, great maps, and not too much text. They loved the funny things the angry birds said throughout the book. This is a great starter atlas, especially for non readers or early readers. My 5 year old would sit and just look through this on his own.

Fun way for children to learn about the world. My son who is 5, loves maps and really enjoyed this book.

This is our third angry bird play ground book. We love them. Our 5 year old is obsessed w/angry birds so these books help direct his attention to other subjects while keeping him very engaged. Fantastic books!

My 7-year-old grandson cannot put this book down. He loves this book so much that he had read it over and over. Excellent for learning geographical skills and very informative. He also makes it a game by quizzes me now.

I bought Angry Birds Playground for an early reader - would probably change the rating to a 10 or above. Not an easy read.

Great book, filled w/ information for kids!

Christopher loves geography and Angry Birds. He reads it often-daily.
